

Learning Outcome #6

Group Participation Self-assessment

Due July 20, 2016

Your contributions in each of our sessions in the macro- and micro-groups add to the conversation in a meaningful and thoughtful manner. Please submit your self-assessment score (1-5) with a brief narrative describing why you rated yourself as you did. Your self assessment should include: attendance, punctuality, small group involvement, large group discussions, depth of personal reflections during reflective activities etc.

My group participation self-assessment score is a 4.5. I would like to think I achieved a perfect score on this assignment but since I was not punctual each and every day that fact detracts from my attainment of a perfect score. Honestly, I enjoyed this class immensely and felt extremely at home in the various micro and macro group discussions in which I participated, listening actively and contributing from my own experiences. At times, I found myself putting a stopgap on verbalizing some of my thoughts in the macro setting because I felt at an unfair advantage. At other times, like when we discussed the text book personalities and any resemblance to known people, my group was very engaged in that exercise. Illustrating our thoughts through signs and symbols was collaborative when discussing the 4 quadrants - all of us lent a hand with the designated outcome. In closing, throughout this entire 2 weeks, I found myself doing personal reflections and making connections that gave me insight about the path of educational leadership that I am now on and how that path and all of its nuances relates to where I have been. If it weren't for my tardiness on a few occasions, I would score myself with a 5 because I think overall my attendance, small group involvement, large group discussions and deep personal reflections were of high quality.
